Brownell Against Proposal To Outlaw Commie Party

Attorney Says Move To Hurt Anti-Red Drive

10-Point Program Offered House Panel To Tighten Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today strongly opposed legislative proposals to outlaw the Communist party in this country. He said such action would hinder rather than help the drive against communism.

The attorney general told a House judiciary subcommittee that any law making it a crime, of itself, to join the party, would send the movement entirely underground and "increase the already difficult investigatory job of the FBI."

In addition, he asserted such a law would raise constitutional questions which would certainly be tested at great lengths in the courts, thus interfering with the numerous action now being taken to curb communism by bringing the organization and its members into the full light of publicity.

In lieu of outlawing the party, the attorney general offered the subcommittee 10 suggestions of his own for tightening the laws relating to subversion. Some of these he had proposed as long ago as last year. His suggestions include:

1. A BROADENING of the registration provisions of the internal security act to require registration by labor unions or business establishments.

Solons Meet To Set Rules For Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigations subcommittee members set out today with their special counsel, Ray H. Jenkins, to draw up plans for their public hearings on the McCarthy-Army row.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), the acting chairman, asked members to meet in his office to confer with Jenkins on the selection of additional special staff employees and to start discussing the scope of the inquiry and the ground rules for the hearings.

Jenkins, a Republican trial lawyer from Knoxville, Tenn., advised the subcommittee in advance that he had another Tennessee lawyer in mind whom he would like to have as his top assistant.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal said it had learned from informed sources that Jenkins' top assistant would be Thomas R. Prentiss, 31, a Memphis Democrat.

Altogether, Mundt said a special staff of seven or eight persons probably will be selected to handle the probe. Hearings are slated to start April 22, and Mundt predicted they are likely to run for 10 days, mornings and afternoons.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has stepped aside as chairman of the subcommittee while it probes the charges he and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, have exchanged with Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Army counselor John G. Adams.

Jaycee Chief Urges Red Fight Abroad

CINCINNATI (AP)—Douglas L. Hoge, world president of Junior Chamber International, says his three-month swing around the world has convinced him the fight to contain communism must be waged "over there" rather than in the United States.

He said the activities of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) have all but ruined American prestige abroad. Europeans and Asians asked three questions over and over again, he reported. They concerned McCarthy, the hydrogen bomb and the possibility of a depression in the United States.

Indochina Declares Total Mobilization In Conflict

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Viet Nam's new war cabinet decreed total mobilization today of all its male citizens between 21 and 25 to fight the Communist-dominated Vietminh rebels.

Meeting for the first time since its creation Saturday by chief of state Bao Dai, Premier Prince Buu Loc and his two cabinet ministers ordered the call by May 15. It was not immediately announced how many of the 13 to 15 million Vietnamese in the French defended zones would be affected.

It was the first time in the exhausting seven-year Indochina war that Viet Nam had called its young men in bulk into the armed forces. Previously the Vietnamese were drafted individually, evasions were numerous and the French force of North Africans and Foreign Legionnaires has carried the brunt of the attack.

The mobilization followed a government decree Saturday incorporating into Viet Nam's 300,000-man national army the 32,000 tough fighting men who formerly paid allegiance to the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects and the Binh Xuyen party.

The cabinet (Acting Defense Minister Le Thanh and Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, chief of the general staff are the other members) also froze approximately 100,000 Vietnamese volunteers now on active duty with the young nation's armed forces. They were ordered to continue serving until further orders.

The cabinet lifted most of the exemptions from military service "in order to carry out the principle of equal and universal military duty for each citizen."

Court martial boards were ordered set up to deal with draft dodgers and deserters. All citizens subject to military service were forbidden to leave the country.

Meanwhile, the French high command in Hanoi reported its troops at besieged Dien Bien Phu were waging a furious, bayonet-charge counterattack on thousands of rebels trying to smash into the fortress from the southeast.

The immediate objective of the rampaging Vietminh assault appeared again to be a 1,200-foot-high hill overlooking the French fortress and only five-eighths of a mile from its center. The French seized the strategic height from the rebels in a surprise offensive Saturday and held it against four earlier big Vietminh attacks.

The Vietminh, armed with sub-machineguns, rifles, pistols, grenades and plastic containers of high explosives, charged up the jungle-covered hill into the heavy fire of French troops firmly holding a long series of winding trenches.

As the Vietminh came within close range, the French Union defenders went "over the top" to fight them off with bayonets and hand grenades.

Illinois Poll Tomorrow To Draw Interest

Politicians Wonder If Primary To Show Trend In Thinking

CHICAGO (AP)—The first political struggle of 1954, a preliminary skirmish to pick candidates for the crucial November battle over control of Congress, reaches a showdown tomorrow in Illinois.

From the standpoint of national interest, the main result will be to tap a Republican for an attempt to tip Democrat Paul H. Douglas out of his Senate seat. Nine candidates are scuffling for the GOP senatorial nomination.

Joseph T. Meek and Edward A. Hayes are regarded as the top contenders. Between the two, observers are inclined to give Meek a shade the better of it.

Meek heads the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations. Hayes is a former national commander of the American Legion.

The nation's first primary tomorrow will determine, too, whether 10 House members, four of them chairmen of major committees, will get a chance to run again in November.

Capitol Hill Highlights

The Senate conducts no regular business out of respect for Sen. Dwight Griswold (R-Neb.) who died unexpectedly early today after a heart attack.

The death of the first-term Nebraska is unlikely to affect the political lineup of the Senate, now composed of 46 Republicans, 48 Democrats and 1 independent. Nebraska's Republican governor, Robert C. Crosby, is expected to appoint a Republican successor to serve until the November election.

ANTI-COMMUNIST LEGISLATION—Atty. Gen. Brownell presents to a House Judiciary subcommittee a legislative program aimed at destroying the Communist party in America. The proposed statutes, which he outlined in a television report to the nation Friday, would hamstring Communist control of vital industrial or labor organizations, make spying a death penalty offense in peace as well as war, and void the citizenship of any person guilty of advocating violent overthrow of the government.

MCCARTHY-ARMY—The Senate investigations subcommittee and its special counsel, Ray H. Jenkins, meet in closed session to plan the public, televised hearings of the row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and top Army officials. They'll discuss the hiring of additional special staff employees and begin laying ground rules for the inquiry.

AGRICULTURE APPROPRIATIONS—The House begins debate on a bill that would give the Agriculture Department more funds than it requested for next year. The House Appropriations Committee Friday voted to give the department the exact amount of cash requested but approved increasing its loan authority 45 million dollars over the amount sought.

Man, 90, Afraid He May Miss 100

CLEVELAND (AP)—Louis S. Jones, who will celebrate his 60th wedding anniversary next Sunday, was a little afraid today he would not reach his goal of living 100 years.

He said he may fail to reach 100 "unless the world starts calming down. With the hydrogen bomb here, someone might get shaky and send us all up in a puff of smoke."

Thieves Take Safe From Oil Concern

Circleville city police sought clues Monday to the whereabouts of a 400-pound safe stolen Sunday night from main offices of The Circleville Oil Co.

Manager Les May of the oil concern said disappearance of the safe was noticed shortly after the offices were opened for business Monday at 7 a. m. He said the firm was not yet able to estimate the amount of missing money but added it would probably be "a good deal."

"We're checking to see just how much money was in the safe," he said, "but it will take awhile to give anything like a definite figure."

The safe was hauled away from the premises, the firm's main station at N. Court and W. High streets, sometime between the 11 p. m. closing hour Sunday and the following morning. The relatively small safe was located on the ground floor of the building.

THE THIEVES were believed to have entered the ground floor offices and garage room by forcing a window. However, police pointed out at least one of the burglars could have been concealed inside the building at closing time Sunday.

A methodical touch to the robbery was noted when it was learned the rollers under the safe had been oiled to facilitate moving it through the garage section to a door on the north side of the building.

There, it was to be assumed, at least two men hauled the safe away in a truck or passenger car. Police Chief Elmer Merriman said no definite clues have been uncovered up to 10 a. m. Monday.

He pointed out such a relatively small object could have been hauled for considerable distance in a truck, or even in the trunk of a passenger car. A description of the safe was being circulated over a wide area.

Police said the thieves also apparently considered taking two new tires, but finally changed their mind at the last minute. The tires were found just inside the north-end door.

Sgt. George Green was called to investigate the robbery when it was first discovered.

State Official Fears Another Ohio Drought

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state department of natural resources warned today Ohio may see a drought the last half of this year that will be even worse than that experienced last year.

Water levels were boosted over most of the state in March, department officials said, but index wells still showed levels below average compared with levels the last five years.

Lloyd Harrold of the soil conservation service estimates it would take six inches of rain to restore Ohio soil and sub soil to normal moisture content. He said at the end of March only three inches of this deficiency had been made up. Department officials said increasing demands for water in the coming months will further inhibit ground water recharge. They said the time has passed when any appreciable improvement in the ground water situation can be expected this year.

Relief can come only if there is greatly excessive rainfall the next few months, they added. However, reservoirs in the Scioto River basin contained a normal storage at the end of March.

Dayton Woman, 2 Kiddies Killed

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—St. Elizabeth Hospital reported today as only fair the condition of Roy Ritchie of Dayton, Ohio, whose wife and two pre-school-age children were killed in an automobile accident Saturday night.

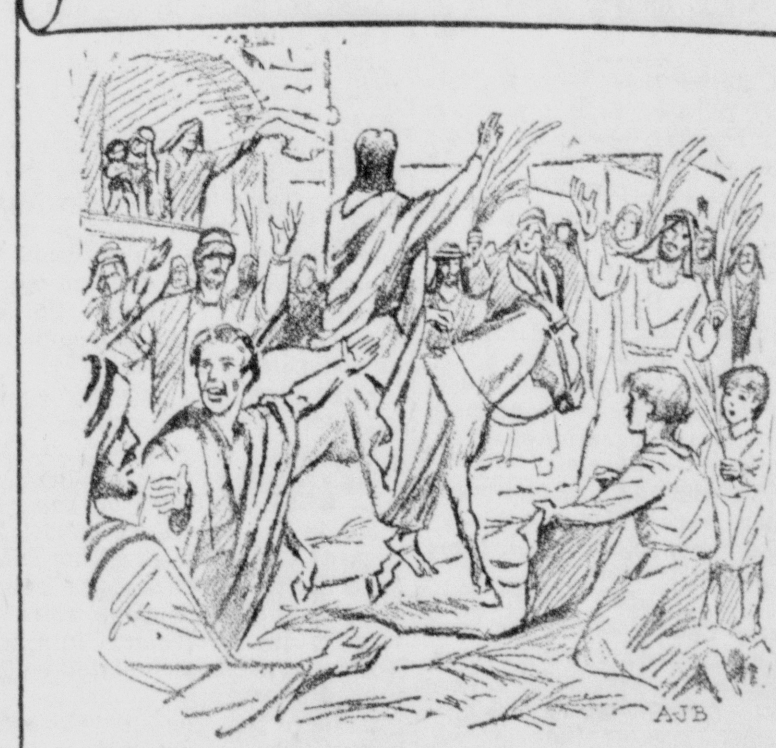

Ritchie's car and another automobile crashed head-on on U. S. 42 near Florence, Ky.

Mrs. Maxie Lee Ritchie, 23; their daughter, Cynthia, 18 months, and son, Roy L. Ritchie III, 3 years old, died in the collision.

SIX LETTERS TO LUCILLA

To My Beloved Wife Lucilla:

It is my happy privilege to report that my voyage hence was accomplished without untoward incident and I am now comfortably lodged in a small villa which the Procurator has so kindly put at my disposal.

I have but recently come from my audience with the noble Pontius Pilate. The Procurator impressed me greatly, a man of stern and commanding presence, yet of good countenance and of a generous nature.

He listened gravely as I revealed my mission—to study the Jews so that I may more ably execute the statue of that ancient leader Abraham (whom these Jews revere so highly) and which the Emperor has commissioned me to fashion for that Hall of the Colonial Peoples he has planned to stand near the Forum of Augustus.

After bestowing upon me the passport and scroll of safe conduct, the Procurator sighed and smiled; a trifle wearily, I thought.

"I envy you, good Bassianus," he said. "Would I were a sculptor such as you and could as easily fashion these unruly peoples into loyal subjects of Rome as you will bring into being the shape of that old prophet from a block of stone!"

My thoughts dwelt with these words of his as I hastened from the palace and so it was with surprise that I suddenly found myself in the midst of a tumultuous crowd. My alarm vanished when I saw these natives meant me no harm but were singing, shouting, dancing with joy and casting great branches from the nearby palm trees into the street to make a carpet for some Person who approached seated upon a young colt.

I write the word "Person" as I do because never before have I seen anyone whose appearance so overpowered me. Compassion, humility—exalted to a degree that was divine! Would my poor arts were such that I could depict this for you but the little sketch I made of the scene and which I enclose must suffice. Dear Lucilla, would you had been with me!

Enough of this, however. It grows late and I must retire. I will write again on the morrow. Embrace the little ones for me and tell them if they are good I will bring each a gift.

Your faithful husband,

ARIUS.

Two Children And Three Adults Hurt At 'Dead Man's Crossing'

"Dead Man's Crossing," the intersection of state routes 56 and 159, was the scene of another accident Sunday night in which five people were injured. A car driven by a Waverly man crashed into a machine occupied by a family of four.

In the most serious condition is 15-month-old Gail Scott, with internal injuries and her right leg broken just below the hip. Her father, Orville, 24, has a fractured left hip and lacerations on top of his head.

Mrs. Joan Scott, 23, Gail's mother, has a broken finger. Her wrist was found on the highway near the collision. The son, Gary, 3, had lacerations of the mouth and suffered from shock.

Erig R. Parsons, 33, of Waverly, was the driver of the other car. He is a construction worker at the Atomic Plant near Waverly. He suffered lacerations on the top of his head, nose, knees and fingers. According to police, a blood-alcohol test taken at Berger Hospital showed a reading of .200. Officers said a reading of .150 is considered indicative of intoxication.

THE SCOTTS, from Springfield, were travelling west on State road 56, according to State Highway Patrolman Gene Miller who was first on the scene. Parsons' car was going an estimated 60-65 miles per hour north on 159.

After treatment Parsons was accused of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and failure to yield the right of way. He was taken to city jail by Patrolman Miller.

Parsons and the Scott family were treated at Berger Hospital. The Scotts were taken back to Springfield in an ambulance and sent to City Hospital there.

Both cars were totally demolished and were lying well off the road. Parsons claimed he was on his way to Cincinnati. However, a report was made that an unidentified motorist had followed Parsons' car and another had been racing at excessive speed.

This would place Parsons' car going in the opposite direction from which he claimed. Parsons told State Patrolman Ray Hoylman that he had estimated his speed as 30-35 miles per hour and that the Scott car didn't stop.

Patrolman Miller had Gail Scott rushed to the hospital here by Sheriff's Deputy Carl Radcliff, who arrived shortly after Miller.

THE ACCIDENT was first reported by a passing truck equipped with a two-way radio. An unidentified citizen helped keep traffic moving until all the wreckage was cleared away.

"Dead Man's Crossing" has been so named because of the large number of fatal accidents occurring there. This year there has already been one death resulting from a collision at the intersection.

Appeals Board Could Order It County-Wide

Tax Official Says Circleville Study May Force Step

To Our Readers: Another report on the methods used to appraise and assess district real estate properties for tax purposes is being brought to The Herald's readers in complete form. Because of its length, the report itself will be printed in two installments following today's explanatory article.

This is being done because the matter is one of vital interest to all taxing bodies, local officials, and—above all—the taxpayers themselves. In addition to stressing the urgent need for a revision in methods used, the report covers many provisions of the taxing statutes which should be clarified for the officials involved and for the general public.

Expanding its criticism of tax computing methods used in Pickaway County, the State Board of Tax Appeals has revealed that "a county-wide revaluation, made in conformity with sound appraisal practice," may prove to be the only way to bring the county's tax books into line with state requirements.

Grim prospect of a county-wide tax reckoning was made clear by Fred F. Becker, chief of the board's division of county affairs, in a special report last weekend to The Herald. Following a recent hearing held by the board in Circleville, Becker had been asked to indicate at the earliest possible date what future steps by that agency were contemplated.

WHILE BECKER has emphasized he does not have the authority to speak for the board as an official unit, Pickaway County's tax affairs constitute a matter of direct concern to his division. Hence, his most recent review of the local tax picture is highly significant, even though it does not mean the board itself has decided on a line of action in reference to this district.

In addition to the warning that a county-wide revaluation may be necessary here, Becker declared:

"The members of the board of revision should carry out and discharge their duties as defined by (Continued on Page Two)

Sen. Griswold Of Nebraska Is Dead At 60

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dwight P. Griswold (R-Neb.), three times governor of his state and former director of the American aid mission to Greece, died early today after a heart attack. He was 60.

Death, attributed to a coronary occlusion, came shortly after midnight at the naval hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md. Mrs. Griswold was at the bedside.

Griswold had been in the Senate since January 1953. He was elected to fill out two years remaining in the term of the late Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry. He had not announced publicly whether he would seek reelection this fall but had told friends he expected to.

No change in the political lineup of the Senate is likely. The governor of Nebraska, Robert C. Crosby, is a Republican and presumably will appoint a Republican successor until the November election.

The Senate composition is now 46 Republicans, 48 Democrats and one independent.

Griswold, although active in Republican political life for a quarter of a century, was named to several high positions in the Democratic administration of Former President Truman. At the time of his appointment to head the Greek aid mission in June 1947, the White House said he had been selected because he was "a good man, forthright and an able administrator."

A big, plump, vigorous man, he listed fishing and hunting as among his favorite hobbies. He had played golf Saturday and again yesterday and attended an exhibition baseball game yesterday afternoon.

3. Revisions in the sabotage statutes to make them clearly applicable to air and water installations which might be damaged by radioactive, biological or chemical agents, and to make all such laws applicable during emergencies as well as in time of war.

4. An extension from three to five years of the time limit for prosecuting numerous criminal offenses.

5. Provision for the death penalty for peacetime espionage.

6. Much stiffer penalties for harboring fugitives from justice.

7. The taking away of citizenship from those convicted of teaching the violent overthrow of this government.

8. A simplification of the perjury laws in order to make prosecutions easier.

9. Grants of immunity from prosecution for selected witnesses refusing to testify on self-incrimination grounds, so they can be compelled to testify and give possible leads to more important persons in a conspiracy.

10. LEGALIZING for use as evidence in federal courts of material obtained by wire tapping. The House has passed such a bill, but included a requirement for advance approval of wiretaps by a federal court. Brownell has opposed that provision.

While both Republicans and Democrats in Congress applauded the general objectives in Brownell's report, it remained far from clear whether his requests for legislation would win passage in the form he wants or whether they would get any action at all.

This week the House has a leisurely, pre-Easter timetable:

No voting tomorrow because primaries are scheduled that day in Illinois.

An agriculture appropriations bill comes up for debate today, but is not expected to go to a roll-call vote before Wednesday.

Friday the congressmen take off on a 10-day Easter recess.

The official Senate calendar is more crowded, but recesses slated Tuesday and Thursday will slow the temple. And today, the Senate undoubtedly will recess without transacting any business, out of respect to Sen. Griswold (R-Neb.), who died early today.

Mound City Seen Retained By U.S. Agency

WASHINGTON (U)—Ohioans who want the Mound City Group National Monument near Chillicothe to remain under federal control can relax for the time being.

Rep. Polk (D-Ohio) says he is sure the federal government will tend the park-park site in his district for at least another year.

The National Park Service had considered handing over the monument to Ohio on the theory that it has little national significance.

This brought booming protests from many Ohioans, including Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Polk said the Interior Department appropriation bill passed recently by the House contained $13,758 for the Mound City Group. He felt sure the Senate will approve the item, too.

"If Congress appropriates the money for it," the congressman said, "that's all there is to it. The park will stay under federal control for another year beginning July 1, 1954."

Talk of handing over the site where mound dwellers lived centuries ago to Ohio caused Gov. Lausche to say this would be "wrong and an injustice."

In a letter to the National Park Service, Lausche disagreed that the park has only local significance. Ohio, he said, has only two federal parks (Mound City Group and Perry's Victory Memorial on Bass Island) while other states have many more.

Ever since the controversy started, Polk said, the only letter writers he has heard from opposed state control of Mound City.

Filipino Chief Cautious On Dulles Policy

MANILA (U)—President Ramon Magsaysay called time out today in the face of an apparent choice between backing the United States in a warning to Red China to stay out of the Indochina war or splitting his troubled administration.

Magsaysay has said Philippines security requires it to join "other free nations in resisting Communism in Southeast Asia."

However, his foreign policy spokesman, Sen. Claro M. Recto, has said the question of which way Indochina goes is "none of the Philippines' business."

After a top policy meeting yesterday (with Recto excluded), Magsaysay said he will seek an immediate conference with the U. S. on the Indochina problem.

He did not say yes or no to the proposal of U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for a united front against Red domination of Indochina.

However, Vice President Carlos P. Garcia asked for a definite choice before Saturday, when he leaves for the Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina.

"We cannot afford to dilly dally on Dulles' invitation," he said.

Recto revived the touchy "Asia for Asians" slogan in a speech this weekend. Magsaysay last month had, in effect, knocked it down with a statement that the Philip-

Dulles Trying Woo British To His Policy

London Government Prefers To Go Slow On Indochina Warning

LONDON (U)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, seeking to patch up a Big Three rift over southeast Asian policy, urged Britain today to abandon its go-slow strategy and join in an early West-ern warning intended to head off Communist seizure of Indochina.

Informants said Dulles told British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden the Western allies must show a united front on Asian affairs at the Geneva conference and bargain from strength. Both Indochina and Korea are up for negotiation at Geneva beginning April 26. Soviet Russia and Red China will be sitting in.

Dulles and Eden, who met at the British foreign office, appeared to be searching for a compromise on the timing of the Washington proposal for a warning to Red China to keep hands off southeast Asia. Paris and London want to postpone any gesture which could be interpreted as a strong arm move, fearing it would narrow the already slim chances of negotiating an Indochina settlement.

Eden began this morning outlining these British objections to an immediate warning to Mao Tse-tung's Communist government:

1. DECLARATION of common aims in the Far East cannot be rushed. Prime Minister Churchill's government must prepare public opinion in this country, which is wary of any involvement in a new Korea, for the contemplated united front moves.

2. There is no new development in the Indochina war which justifies hasty counter-measures. The onset of the rainy season early next month will slow military operations in Indochina and give the West a chance to plan a careful program of action.

Another factor in the government's go-slow policy is the opposition of two of Britain's Asian commonwealth partners, India and Pakistan, to British involvement in what they regard as the "Indochinese colonial war."

The American secretary puts his arguments directly to Churchill tonight, when he dines with the prime minister.

Britain's opposition Labor party, meanwhile, stepped up demands that Churchill tell Dulles not "a single British man or gun" would be used in Indochina.

Across the Channel in Paris, where Dulles flies tomorrow to urge his view on Premier Joseph Laniel and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, the French cabinet was reported fearful that strong public words to the Reds now would doom in advance any chance of negotiating an Indochinese peace.

THE LABOR attack on the U. S. secretary's visit was spearheaded by John Strachey, minister of war in the Labor government, and Jennie Lee, member of Parliament and wife of the party's leftwing leader, Aneurin Bevan.

"For us to agree with America in attacking the Chinese mainland would be insanity itself," Strachey told a party rally. "That would be the royal road to a third world war and a third world war now means certain extermination for the British people."

Miss Lee declared:

"We must tell Dulles that we cannot take a stand on Indochina. If there are certain Americans who are now wondering whether they are going to drop a hydrogen bomb on the mainland of China or in Indochina, they have to be told quite clearly they cannot continue that policy and hope for the continued friendship and cooperation of the British people."

A ten year-old boy was injured when he fell off his bike and was run over by a manure spreader Saturday afternoon. Kenneth Valentine of Circleville suffered lacerations of the forehead, chin, chest, back and left knee.

According to Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards, Kenneth was riding his bike beside the machinery, driven by Arthur Murray. Apparently the boy lost control of the bicycle and was run over before Murray could stop.

The injured boy was taken to Berger Hospital by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Valentine. After treatment he was released.

Holdup Men Held In Jackson Theft

JACKSON (U)—State highway patrolmen today captured two men Jackson police said stole $75 from a local gas station this morning.

The two were picked up hitchhiking near McArthur after they abandoned the 1953 Cadillac in which they had crashed through a road block near Wellston, about nine miles north of here.

The two, now held in Jackson County jail, were identified as Arthur Earl Johnson, 22, of Circleville and Robert Lee Goman, 21, of Lancaster.

Appeals Court Sets Aside 101 North American Fines

TOLEDO (U)—The Sixth District Court of Appeals here today set aside 101 of the 107 $500 fines levied against UAW-CIO unions, officers and members for strike disorders during a picketing injunction at North American Aviation, Inc., Columbus.

Appellate Judges Amos L. Conn and Lehr Fess ruled there was insufficient evidence against the unions and all but six of the 105 individual defendants punished for contempt of Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Harter of Franklin County, last Nov. 27.

Judge Clyde L. Deeds, third member of the Toledo Appeals Court which sat in place of the Franklin County Court of Appeals, dissented from the majority view and held the action of Judge Harter in fining the unions and men $500, or an aggregate of $50,000 with $25,000 to be suspended if strike riot damages were paid, was "without authority in law and erroneous." Judge Deeds said there was no substantial evidence to support the judgment against any of the six.

THE MAJORITY decision also held movies taken of riots which occurred at the North American plant Nov. 17 were admissible as evidence "under the same basic principles governing the admission of still pictures."

Motion pictures of rioters overturning automobiles and committing other acts of violence outside the aircraft plant were viewed three times by the trial court, ment witnesses, once with comments of union witnesses, and once without comment. The appeals court also viewed the films.

In reversing the trial court, the majority opinion noted the evidence showed officers of the union were diligent in calling the court's orders to the attention of members and "repeatedly counseled obedience and strict observance of the provisions."

The opinion, however, said the 2,000-page record of the trial and contempt proceeding refuted the charge of union attorneys, that Judge Harter repeatedly showed bias and prejudice against the union and its members. The UAW-CIO and its affiliated Local No. 927, represented 12,500 out of 18,000 employees at the plant.

The opinion also said the trial court was cognizant of the explosive character of the situation and was frank in warning that its orders would be enforced.

The majority opinion held six members of the union who were identified positively at the scene of the riot should pay the fines of $500 apiece and one-fifth of the costs of the proceeding and appeal. The other four-fifths of the costly proceedings must be paid by the company.

The six whose contempt convictions were affirmed are Raymond Wilkerson, picket captain, Harvey Van Horne, Bernard Angus, Kenneth Handle, Charles F. Walker and Paul Ritchie.

Appeals Board Could Order It County-Wide

law and not usurp the duties of the county auditor."

Along with Pickaway County Auditor Fred Tipton, members of the County Board of Tax Revision are Chairman Bill Goode of the County Board of Commissioners and County Treasurer Bob Colville. Becker's reference to the duties involved was based on information gathered recently by a state survey and supplemented at the hearing held in Circleville on April 6.

The hearing was in effect a full checkup on the Pickaway County real tax computing methods, similar to action taken recently in a number of other Ohio counties. For the most part, discussions here on April 6 centered on improved properties in the city of Circleville.

It was brought out, by comparing valuation figures from building permits with the present assessment data, that many property owners in the city have been assessed for only a fraction of the correct valuation. And Becker, after the hearing, said the board may order Tipton "to go back and pick up all the taxes that should have been paid."

HOWEVER, BECKER'S latest review of the situation here hints at even more drastic steps to adjust the district real estate tax books. While names and addresses were withheld, he revealed details on six improved properties in Circleville to show how their owners should be paying many times the tax they now pay under the current appraisals.

In the six cases selected by Becker for his latest report, he pointed out why the owners should be paying from 14 to 62 times the amount of taxes now assessed. Then he added:

"If the six examples used is any criteria... the only remedy is a county-wide revaluation, made in conformity with sound appraisal practice, by trained and experienced appraisers."

In other important sections of the report by the state board's county affairs chief, he points out that tax computing methods in Pickaway County have not been "in accord with the statutory requirements."

Becker's latest review of the Pickaway County tax picture, in addition to probing deeper and hinting at corrective action, was also in the nature of a reply to a statement issued by the County Board of Tax Revision.

The McCarthy Story: How Joe Operates

By RELMIN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Where does Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy get his information?

The answer is that since he first cried "Red" he has built a formidable intelligence system. It is based on a network of agents and informers, paid and unpaid, who dig up material from every corner of the United States, from confidential government files, even from foreign countries.

He has demonstrated time and again that he can quickly lay his hands on episodes—often long past—in the lives of men and women. His operation feeds on the skeleton in the closet, specially the political skeleton, but all kinds of skeletons interest him.

He has two main sources of information.

He employs a staff of agents, many of them former FBI men, who earn more working for him than they could for the government. He also hires, as he needs them, undercover operatives in foreign countries.

In addition to these professionals, he receives "information" from a host of amateur tipsters and snoopers, anxious or disgruntled people—individuals he has never met, whose very names may be unknown to him. This is perhaps the most astonishing phase of the phenomenon of "McCarthyism."

His office has become a receptacle for the fears, suspicions, hates and prejudices of an army of these informers.

It is often asserted as well that McCarthy has agents among the employees of government offices. However, since he carefully protects his sources and informants, no solid evidence of this has emerged.

In any case, it is evident that he has access to some secret government documents and classified papers. How he gets them is his secret.

In his office he presides over a shadowy empire of personal histories . . . card-files cross-indexed as to names and cases, piles of dossiers, photographs, photographic copies, letters, newspaper clippings, memoranda.

He never knows what may be useful out of all this. He says that when he first brought his charges of Reds-in-government "I began to be swamped with tips; much of the stuff is worthless. But on the other hand some of it has proved very valuable."

An old newspaper clip, for example, came in handy recently.

Last month commentator Edward R. Murrow conducted a television program critical of McCarthy. The senator promptly replied. He said Murrow had been a member of the National Advisory Council of Moscow University, summer session back in 1935.

(Murrow said he had been assistant director of the Institute of International Education, which was an organization arranging student exchanges. He said the Russians themselves called off the summer session before it began.)

But the 19-year-old incident was in McCarthy's files. The clip had been sent him, long ago, by one of the many volunteer informers.

McCarthy makes no secret of the fact that he sometimes employs agents in other countries. He had one working out of Paris some years ago when he was centering his fire on the State Department. He said the material this man unearthed figured in some of his charges against State Department personnel.

He hired a detective in Shanghai who obtained photographic copies of five pages of police records. McCarthy laughs: "They were in Chinese . . . I had to have the stuff translated."

He denied to this reporter that he ever gets any information directly from the FBI, although Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) has publicly expressed the belief that McCarthy has access to material from FBI files.

In an interview, McCarthy said: "The only time I ask for information is through the attorney general. By official letter we occasionally ask for name checks."

McCarthy's chief counsel, Roy Cohn, was present at the interview and added, "We have never given an FBI file, and we have never gotten a tip from the FBI."

Nevertheless, some classified documents and government information of a secret nature somehow come into McCarthy's possession. Reed Harris, formerly a top official in the International Information Administration, who was quizzed by McCarthy's committee, cites a personal experience.

On the day before his closed session with the committee, he says, a message went from his office in Washington to the New York office of IIA.

It was transmitted, he says, by an electronic "scrambler." The "unscrambling" device was at the receiving end of the system.

Harris says that 24 hours later McCarthy had the message "in the clear," that is, contents known. He comments: "Only a few people are involved in the transmission of such messages. They are highly classified. Yet McCarthy had it."

Does McCarthy tap telephones? A former top aide to the senator—who asked not to be identified—said he doesn't believe so. He said this was not the practice while he was in McCarthy's office.

Harris, however, recalled a telephone conversation with a woman friend.

"She called me at my home one night . . . Two hours later, one of McCarthy's agents was in her apartment house, asking the neighbors if they had ever seen me in her apartment, if I had been there late at night and so on."

Harris laughed. "The lady is 80 years old, which considerably surprised McCarthy's agent."

Even without any such cloak-and-dagger methods, McCarthy would have wide powers and resources.

He is chairman of the Committee on Government Operations and of its permanent subcommittee on investigations. In his annual report he wrote: "This committee is charged with the investigation of the operations of all government departments at all levels, with a view to determining their economy and efficiency."

That covers a lot of ground. Four Republican and three Democratic senators sit on the subcommittee. McCarthy became chairman through seniority, having been a member longer than any other Republican.

His own staff and the subcommittee staff are, in effect, one and the same thing. He has 15 investigators and lawyers, 10 clerks and stenographers.

Most of the girls are pretty. (His wife, the former Jean Kerr, was one of his assistants before their marriage.) McCarthy takes a personal interest in them, remembers birthdays and anniversaries, sometimes with handsome checks.

The staff works at close quarters in the office, with desks jammed in among steel filing cabinets, and bulging boxes of mail everywhere. It comes in almost too fast to sort and file.

McCarthy, a driver, sometimes works around the clock. One of his former speech-writing assistants says, "It's nothing for him to call in somebody at 12 or 1 o'clock in the morning and work through until dawn."

McCarthy considers all advice on cases, investigations and speeches, but then makes final decisions himself. The last draft of a speech is his.

The two key men in his operation are the chief counsel, Roy Cohn, and the chief of staff, Francis Carr, a former FBI agent. They direct the investigations, receive the day-to-day reports of the agents, brief McCarthy as to progress.

A case may start in any number of ways.

A great many come from tips, some are referred to McCarthy's committee from other Senate committees. Others develop from leads that appear in the investigation of a totally different case.

Thus McCarthy is in a position to choose from a wide range of possibilities whatever he thinks is especially desirable to investigate.

He reported that last year 455 preliminary inquiries were dropped "without need for extensive investigation." That could mean they led nowhere, or that action already had been taken on them. The report cites another 157 which were investigated.

He suddenly became so interested in the Ft. Monmouth, N.J., radar center that he interrupted his honeymoon in the West Indies, hastened home and opened an inquiry.

Actually, the Army already had suspended some civilian employees at Ft. Monmouth, for security reasons. Presumably, McCarthy's investigators passed this word to him.

Anyway, McCarthy said the situation had "all the earmarks of extremely dangerous espionage." Secretary of the Army Stevens denied this and wrote in a letter to Sen. Ellender (D-La.): "Insofar as the Army has thus far been able to determine, there is no current espionage or other subversive activity at Ft. Monmouth."

The Monmouth controversy developed while the three Democratic members of the subcommittee were not serving on it. They had walked off, months before, in protest against a ruling by the GOP majority that gave McCarthy the sole right to hire and fire staff employees.

Later, when McCarthy and the Republican senators agreed to a new set of rules, the Democrats returned.

But they had been unhappy for a long time about McCarthy's methods of operating. They criticized his one-man hearings and claimed that in several cases they had not been properly briefed about the facts in some investigations.

The procedure is to provide the subcommittee, from time to time, with one-page summaries of the findings in cases under inquiry. Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), a subcommittee member, said the summaries "were not too complete, although they've been getting better lately."

Jackson said the other subcommittee members must rely to a considerable degree on the version of a case as set forth by McCarthy's agents. The senators do not have the means to check everything his investigators report.

So the questions arose: Does McCarthy's staff honestly seek information, pursuing the facts with an open mind? Or is an inquiry conducted, and the findings presented, so as to "prove" what McCarthy wants "proved?"

"If the staff goes out to try to prove something," Jackson said, "based on a theory of their own, without regard to objectivity, then you can't have a fair and impartial hearing. The facts may not be at all as they are reported to the American people."

Jackson cited, as an example, conflicting testimony over the location of two proposed radio transmitters for the Voice of America.

He said McCarthy's staff quoted only the opinions of technicians who held that the sites for the transmitters were unsuitable. Later Jackson said, he discovered that the Voice had consulted engineers from the Radio Corp. of America and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who gave opposite opinions.

Jackson said he now is trying to determine whether this information was deliberately withheld from the committee—to build up evidence of an alleged conspiracy.

He said, "The hearings may have brought out indications of mismanagement or inefficiency, but they certainly didn't show evidence of any conspiracy."

McCarthy insisted there had been a "unanimity of opinion" at one time about the sites, but he didn't explain further.

Jackson also said he objected to the way Roy Cohn questioned witnesses in the case of Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, Army code room employee. He said Cohn's questions were so framed as to cast suspicion on her.

Jackson said he himself put some questions which elicited answers that put her in a more favorable light. Mrs. Moss denied under oath that she was a Communist and has returned to her job pending completion of a Pentagon investigation.

Criticisms also have been leveled at McCarthy for his tactics in both closed and public hearings. Under the new rules the three Democratic senators can block a public hearing pending a vote by the full committee.

Likewise, McCarthy has surrendered the authority to be the sole judge of who is hired and fired on his staff. It now takes a committee majority.

To these degrees, at least, his power has been somewhat curtailed by recent developments and rising opposition.

How much does McCarthy's investigative work cost? His annual report showed that he spent $193,000 out of a $200,000 appropriation in the 12 months ended Jan. 31, 1953.

For the 12 months ending next Jan. 31 he received an appropriation of $214,000. The extra $14,000 was to provide Democratic subcommittee members with their own counsel and part-time clerical help and to pay the minority members' incidental expenses.

Chillicothe Member Hosts Daughters Of 1812 Meeting

Educator Gives Guest Address

John A. Smith, Superintendent of the Chillicothe schools was the guest speaker when Major John Boggs Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812 met in the home of Mrs. Fred K. Sexauer of Chillicothe. Mrs. Richard Hedges, president, opened the meeting in ritualistic form, assisted by the chaplain Mrs. Ella Hornbeck. Mrs. Sterley Croan led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Miss Betty McCoy was welcomed as a guest. At the conclusion of a business session the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Charles May. Mrs. May presented Miss Gertrude Allen who in turn introduced the speaker of the afternoon.

Mr. Smith gave an educational talk on the history and effect of the War of 1812 on this country. He said this war is sometimes called the Second War of Independence. While it is often said 'old men declare wars and young men fight them' this was not the case in the War of 1812. It was carried through Congress by the younger men.

Continuing, Mr. Smith said our first tariff for the protection and establishing of industries in this new country was an outcome of this war. It also impressed on our forefathers the importance of the entire Union holding together.

In conclusion he said there was no comparison between the union of the thirteen colonies and a world government. All the colonists spoke one language and had one standard of living, whereas in a world government there would be many languages with different ideals and standards of living. The speaker said that we should cooperate with other nations but above all keep our own nation strong and be ever vigilant.

During a social hour a dessert course was served by the hostess.

To keep hot breads from cooling at the table, keep them covered with a napkin.

WASHINGTON (AP) — If energy was the sole test, John Foster Dulles already would be one of the most successful secretaries of state in American history.

Now 66, and in office less than 12 months, he has traveled more than four times the distance around the earth in pursuit of American well-being since he became secretary.

Now he's on a rush trip to London and Paris to be sure he and the British and French foreign ministers see eye-to-eye when they meet with the Russians and Chinese Communists in Geneva April 20.

Then he will fly back here, report to President Eisenhower, and then turn around and fly to Geneva. Dulles' endurance has been impressive. Obviously, he's over-worked.

But history, with icy detachment, will appraise him not on his energy or his earnestness but on his vision, his judgment and his backbone. All three face a major test at Geneva's conference on peace in Korea and Indochina.

More than peace in either place is involved. The Communists could consider the whole conference successful if they split the United States and France or, through propaganda, diminished this country's stature a little.

Since last summer there has been a truce in Korea but no peace. And in the eight-year-old war between the French and the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina there is no sign of either truce or peace.

Peace in Korea seems impossible. The United States wants Korea united in free elections which the South Korean government, an American ally, would be sure to win if only because the South Koreans outnumber the North Koreans. It's hard to see the Communists buying that.

Somehow, perhaps, they might be willing to stop helping the Vietminh against the French, which would mean a French victory. Even that sounds like wishful thinking. But if they did, there's been a price tag attached. What price?

The Chinese may have thought they could make a deal for themselves when their Russian ally arranged to let them sit in at Geneva, their first invitation to a conference of the big powers.

The United States doesn't recognize the Red Chinese government, and it has opposed Peiping's seating in the United Nations where Chiang Kai-shek's nationalist regime sits as the recognized government of China.

The Chinese may have felt—but when anyone suggests this he's guessing—that for some concessions on Korea or Indochina they could get recognition by the United States and a seat in the U. N., replacing Chiang.

In a New York speech March 29 Dulles seemed to close the door on both possibilities, so far as this country is concerned. Even if he wanted to do business on those terms, he's under tremendous congressional pressure not to.

He's been very careful about listening to Congress. What then has he left for horse-trading with the Chinese at Geneva? Or is he only going there with demands that they make peace in Korea and Indochina on American terms?

He has called for "united action" among American allies in Indochina to help the French—apparently before he had discussed it with the allies.

If this is his bargaining point—a warning the Allies may jump into Indochina if the Chinese don't agree to help end the war there—it will work only if the Communists buy it. If not, the eventual result may be war.

The Eisenhower administration is talking of easing trade restrictions against Red satellites. It hopes this will sound attractive enough to the Russians to make them pressure their Chinese ally.

Dulles will have to guard against Communist promises directed at the French in a move to split them away from this country.

If he goes to Geneva so rigidly—and publicly—determined to have his way entirely on his own terms, the Communists may turn his steadfastness against him for their own propaganda advantage by making proposals they know he can't accept but which might sound plausible to American allies.

Man, 99, Seeks Marriage Writ

LOUISVILLE (AP)—John L. Beard, who will celebrate his 100th birthday Thursday, applied for a marriage license Saturday.

His bride-to-be is Mrs. Mertie L. Welch, 69. Both live in the same rooming house.

Four years ago, Beard appeared before Mayor Charles Farnsley and complained he had been laid off his job as garbage man.

"I can toss a garbage can as high and wide as anyone in the department," he asserted. Beard got his job back.

School Notes

ASHVILLE-HARRISON
By Ellen Essick

The juniors have chosen May 7, the date of the county Junior-Senior Dance sponsored annually by the Elks, as the date for Ashville-Harrison's annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The banquet will be prepared by the juniors' mothers and served in the high school auditorium. Decorations will be based on the theme, "stairway to the stars."

Concluding a unit on child care, the third year Home Economics class gave a party for a group of first graders. To complete this project, the girls made invitations and favors, planned games and stories for entertainment, and baked animal cookies to serve with hot chocolate for refreshments.

C. E. Mahaffey, principal of Ashville-Harrison High, served as judge in the chemistry division at the sixth annual Central District High School Science Day, held at Ohio State University April 3.

The Science Day is held to develop interest in science and its application to modern living. There were displays from high schools throughout the state.

Attending from Ashville were: Sheldon Myers, science instructor; Audrey Baker, Beatrice Baker, Boyd Kuh, Danny Roese, Robert Newton, Jeff Sturgell, and Loy Le-Master.

The seniors leave May 9 for a tour of Washington D. C. and New York City.

The group will spend two days in Washington and three days in New York, and the trip will include complete tours of both cities.

Nancy Doermann and William Barnetson will accompany the group.

Jane Caldwell, Jack Hutchison, Becky Dountz, Eugene Wheeler, John Swingle, and Robert Wright were tapped for membership in the National Honor Society and were honored at the county banquet Friday at Williamsport High School.

Taking part in the earlier ceremony were: Ohio State University students David Kraft, Paul Teegardin, and Charles Hardin, and seniors James Hopper, Sharon Pontius, and Ellen Essick.

A quartet from Ashville was featured as part of the program listed for the county banquet. The quartet consists of Sheldon Myers, vocal music teacher; Eugene Cronenwett, instrumental music instructor; and the Rev. Werner Stuck, minister of the Ashville Lutheran Church.

Prayer For Rain Answered Quickly

ROTAN, Tex. (AP)—The pastor of Rotan's First Baptist Church announced at the start of morning services yesterday that prayers for rain would be held each Sabbath until it rained.

Minutes later light drizzle began falling.

Dr. Laurence Hays interrupted his sermon and exclaimed: "That's rain!"

A member spoke up, "Now is the time to pray," and prayers were offered.

The preaching resumed. Ten minutes later it began to pour down on this drought-hurt west Texas town. The pastor again interrupted his sermon and asked the congregation to stand and thank the Lord.

A total of .71 of an inch fell during the services.

Radio-TV Slated To Air Baseball

NEW YORK (AP)—Opening baseball from New York and Washington will be available on limited radio and TV hookups tomorrow.

The New York game, Giants vs. Brooklyn Dodgers, will start MBS radio's fifth season of "Game of the Day" broadcasts at 1:25 p. m.

At Washington ABC-TV will open its "game of the Week" schedule—future contests are Saturday afternoon—with the New York Yankees vs. the Senators at 2:30. Altogether ABC-TV plans to carry 25 games.

Bob Friend Opens Pittsburgh Season

Starting pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates' opening game Tuesday will be Bob Friend. The star right-hander is a brother of Ray Friend, Circleville grain official.

Bob will face one of the aces of the National League when the Philadelphia Phillies will start Robin Roberts. Friend has one spring shutout to his credit. He blanked the Boston Red Sox two weeks ago.

Circleville DeMolay Champions Of State Basketball Tournament

Circleville is the 1954 State DeMolay Basketball champion. They defeated Aladdin of Columbus 71 to 60 Saturday night. The game was played at VanCleve High School in Troy.

Earlier that same day, Circleville moved into the Class A finals by beating Youngstown 60 to 53, a team which had held the State Championship for the past two years. Aladdin had not been defeated in three years until Circleville did the trick in November at Columbus.

What makes the victory more sweet is the fact that Circleville is rated Class B while the other teams were Class A.

These ratings are based on the number of members. But the local boys jumped their class and made it pay off with the championship trophy.

IN THE Youngstown game Circleville trailed until the half but pulled ahead in the third quarter. In the Aladdin game they trailed by two points in the first period but were never headed from then on.

In the first game Johnnie Wardell tossed in 20 points while "Babe" Rhoads had 16. High for the losers was Williams with 20. In the main go Rhoads and Charlie Hardin each had 20 and Wardell 18. Aladdin's Bealing had 22 points.

After winning the championship, advisors Francis L. Hoover and Kay Creamer and assistant coach Schleich were hoisted on the teams' shoulders and carried off the floor. They were tossed into the showers after which they were carried back to the gym. Several pictures of them in this condition were taken by the Ohio DeMolay Orator news photographer from Cleveland.

Following the excitement there was a floor show, a grand march and festivities ended with a dance.

The line scores for both games follow:

Score by Qtrs.	1	2	3	Total
Youngstown	21	30	41	53
Circleville	14	28	47	60
Circleville	14	35	53	71
Aladdin	16	29	42	60

Slaughter Sold In Rush Deal To Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Enos Slaughter, the balding old war horse of the St. Louis Cardinals, joined the New York Yankees today and if history repeats itself he will be just the insurance Casey Stengel needs to wrap up his sixth straight American League pennant.

The 33-year-old veteran of 16 years with the Redbirds was dealt to the Yanks yesterday less than 48 hours before the opening of the season for pitcher Mel Wright and three unnamed players who will be assigned to Card farm clubs.

Five times before the Yanks have reached into the National League for players other clubs thought were washed up, and almost every time the deal turned out to their advantage.

They obtained Johnny Mize from the New York Giants, Johnny Hopp from the Pittsburgh Pirates, Johnny Sain from the Boston Braves, Ewell Blackwell from the Cincinnati Reds and Johnny Schmitz from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

With Mickey Mantle's bad leg still a question mark, and the Yanks floundering along under their worst spring training record since Stengel took over, Slaughter could be just the shot in the arm they need. He always has been a hustle guy.

For his part, Slaughter, who compiled a lifetime batting average of .305, was unhappy.

"This is the biggest shock of my life," he said, "something I never expected to happen. I've given my life to this organization and they let you go when they think you're getting old. What gets me is that they let you go before you're finished. I've still got some good years of baseball left in me. I'll give Casey Stengel 100 per cent just as I've given every ball club I've ever played for."

Birdie Hopes His Debut To Be Pleasant

CINCINNATI (AP)—Birdie Tebbets, the American League all-star catcher who battled with Detroit against the Cincinnati Reds in the 1940 World Series, starts his career for the Reds as a major league manager tomorrow.

The Reds host the second-place Milwaukee Braves at the gala Crosley Field opener with Bud Podbielan on the mound.

Debutants have not been happy affairs for recent Cincy managers. Seven of the last nine have dropped their first starts with the club.

But the talkative Tebbets is not troubled by tradition.

"We're optimistic," he said in an interview. "We'll play nine innings if it doesn't rain. And when you're playing you always have a chance."

"The punch of this club is its outstanding trait—potentially great power," the 42-year-old Vermont native observed. "We could use some more right-handed punch to balance our attack. Jim Greengrass has supplied some righthand power and Wally Post might give some more."

He had high praise for Gus Bell and Ted Kluszewski, who with Greengrass formed the Reds' terror trio last season. Each batted in 100 or more runs apiece.

"But the big question is pitching," Tebbets admitted. "Our pitchers will allow fewer runs this season than they did last. We're going to be better off."

"They're going to have to be a lot 'better off' to avoid performances of recent vintage—strictly second division."

Plans for the Circleville summer recreational softball league get into high gear Monday night. Dick Boyd, CHS baseball coach and organizer of the league, has called an organizational meeting for 7:30 p. m. at Circleville High School.

All managers of teams interested in playing are asked to attend, according to Boyd. Any team in Pickaway County is eligible, he added.

Sokolsky's These Days

Even admitting that some or many citizens object to the methods of Congressional committees, the Constitution places upon the Congress the principal responsibility for policy-making in our form of government. Reduce the Congress to a nonentity, lower its prestige and authority, and our form of government ceases to exist. There may be those who believe that our form of government requires alteration in the middle of the twentieth century; if they so hold, it should be accomplished by proper means as provided for in the Constitution and not as a result of a quarrel over a side issue.

Senator McCarran, whose chairmanship of the subcommittee to investigate subversion produced the monumental report on the Institute of Pacific Relations, referring to the McCarthy imbroglio, said:

"... Basically, the real issue is rapidly becoming to be whether, at long last, the Communists, with the aid of front groups, fellow-travelers, Communist sympathizers, and dupes, are going to succeed in their efforts to silence the committees of the United States Congress who have been starting to tear away the mask from the sinister operations in this country of the world Communist conspiracy."

That is the issue whether or not likes Senator McCarthy or not, and it will remain the issue no matter what happens to Senator McCarthy. Even if the Democrats should be able to organize after the November elections, Senators McCarran and McClellan will be in charge to carry the program forward.

Latest Crash Revives Discussions On Danger At Leistville

Some Skeptical On New Plans For Crossing

Nationwide Survey Holds Speed Top Fault To Curb

Another serious accident Sunday night reminded Pickaway County traffic safety planners that the problem of "Dead Man's Crossing" at Leistville has yet to be solved.

Results of the latest crash could be threefold. It could:

1. Focus public attention on new safeguards planned for the intersection southeast of Circleville.
2. Renew the argument over how much high speed is responsible for the crossing's accident rate.
3. Bring about a continued study by the district's newly formed traffic safety committee.

The State Highways Department recently announced a new survey of the intersection had developed 11 safety recommendations, including a blinker light, plans to "open up visibility" by acquiring more right-of-way, and a complete overhaul of the signs and pavement markings already at the scene. The department's new plans were announced after local officials and the Pickaway County grand jury had called attention again to the Leistville motoring hazards.

It seemed likely, in view of the latest accident, that the county's safety group would urge immediate action to put the state's recommendations into effect. But some local officials, familiar with the crossing's unusual dangers even for careful drivers, have already voiced doubt the improvements will eliminate the death trap.

SOME PLANNERS contend the dangers will remain as long as motorists approach the spot at high speed. The State Highways Department in a survey last year supported this claim, insisting additional safeguards would be worthless unless "drivers read the signs." Signs calling for caution are at all corners of the intersection.

Meanwhile, the growing debate over how much high speed figures in traffic accidents continues across the nation.

Contradicting claims by some other traffic authorities, a large insurance firm recently declared:

"Excessive speed was the most dangerous driving mistake in 1953. Speed killed 13,870 persons and injured more than 600,000."

On other phases of the nation's traffic death problem, the firm's survey report continued:

"The worst automobile accident toll in the nation's history—more than two million casualties—was recorded last year. Traffic deaths totaled 38,500, an increase of 900 over 1952. The list of injured reached 2,140,000, as compared to 2,090,000 for the previous year."

"DRIVERS UNDER 25 years of age were involved in almost 25 per cent of the year's fatal accidents, although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers."

Weekend crashes accounted for 15,800 killed and 800,000 hurt during 1953. Forty-one per cent of the deaths and 36 per cent of the injuries occurred on Saturdays and Sundays last year.

"The pedestrian record reflected the third consecutive year of improvement. Figures show pedestrian casualties reduced by 50 to 8,600. Crossing between intersections, 'jay walking,' still is the chief cause of pedestrian deaths and injuries."

"Three out of four 1953 auto accidents happened to passenger cars driving in clear weather on dry roads. Eighty per cent of vehicles

Your Election Laws . . .

By Ted W. Brown
Secretary of State of Ohio
(One of a Series)

Many persons will be voting for the first time at the Primaries, May 4. For the benefit of these "new" voters, and to inform others of the correct procedure in the handling of their ballot, this information is given:

When an elector enters the polling place to vote, he first gives his name and address to the precinct officials and then writes his name and address in the poll list. If a person is unable to write, he may make his mark, the precinct official writing his name and address in the book as a witness to the mark.

If the precinct is one having registration, the voter's signature is compared with the registration card. In a Primary Election, the voter then makes a request for either a Democratic or Republican ballot. If voting machines are used, he then proceeds to the machine. If paper ballots are used, he is handed a ballot and then proceeds to the secret voting compartment. Here's something voters should know! If a voter tears, soils or defaces, or erroneously marks a ballot, he may return it and a second ballot will be issued.

There are two stubs on each paper ballot. Stub A and Stub B both contain the same number. Stub A remains in the pad when the voter is handed the ballot. After the voter has voted and hands the folded ballot to the precinct official, Stub B is then detached and deposited in a separate container. Often voters fail to observe the act of the official in tearing off Stub B before depositing the ballot and are apt to think their vote can be traced. These stubs are for your protection and you may be assured that your vote is secret!

Shortage Seen In Portsmouth Hospital Fund

COLUMBUS (AP) — A special state audit released today showed a $2,198 shortage in Portsmouth General Hospital funds.

The state auditor's office reported six separate findings for recovery. E. T. Beall, former city manager and acting hospital director, was named in all of them. Other named in findings were Lawrence T. Brett, former hospital director, and R. A. Carvolth, present director who was serving during the audit period.

Examiners said the shortages resulted from disappearance of $50 from the hospital cash drawer, June 24, 1952, and the disappearance from a safe of $1,876 in hospital receipts for May 6, 1953. Missing checks were duplicated but $654 in cash was not recovered.

The rest of the shortage occurred, examiners said, when $738 in receipts for Sept. 23, 1953, and $755 for Sept. 21 and Oct. 12, 1952, were not deposited in the city treasury. They were listed as "not accounted for."

The finding against Brett was for $50. Carvolth was named in the finding resulting from the May 6 fund disappearance.

Separate findings against Beall were returned for $236 worth of cortone, a "wonder drug," allegedly purchased for his own use but paid for by the hospital and nearly $23 worth of lumber delivered to his home but charged to the hospital.

Drought Hurts Many Parts Of Southwest

'Recession' Is Not Major Problem, But Miracles Do Happen

By SAM DAWSON

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Drought—NOT "inventory recession"—is the prime troublemaker for business today in many sections between Arizona and the Mississippi and even beyond.

Vast acreages of parched earth threaten to pare a sizable slice from the nation's grain and meat supplies and from the incomes of farmers and ranchers and from the prosperity of the towns and cities servicing them.

But weather miracles can happen. And here's one.

Rainouts from a freak storm covering most of Arizona—the like of which hasn't been seen since 1905, the Weather Bureau says—are reviving cattle waterholes, ranges and prospects, pouring tons of water into depleted irrigation reservoirs and helping replenish groundwater levels in wells that have been falling fast for five years.

It is also reviving business sentiment here more noticeably than have any of the counter-recession measures taken in the Eastern financial and governmental centers.

In the Southwest rain is more potent than Wall Street and as much so as Washington.

Other states haven't been so lucky, yet. Scattered rains have helped some. And in Missouri and eastern Kansas they hope the April showers will come along on schedule to save the wheat crop. But some towns in that area are shipping in their drinking water in tank cars, while trying out rain-making schemes.

The toll of drought elsewhere in the nation is high. In parts of the southeastern states winter precipitation was below normal, after scattered droughts there had hurt crops and livestock last summer, and depressed store sales in some places.

Livestock men in parts of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado are hard hit by the dry cycle which has seared ranges and dried waterholes. Texans this week are discussing plans for distribution of surplus food from federal stores among the needy, whose livelihood shrank for lack of water.

From parts of southern Iowa hit by drought last summer come reports that livestock is being sold by feeders who don't want to pay the government loan price for corn from more favored counties to fatten their stock.

Federal agencies report in parts of the western Great Plains wheat is in a "precarious condition" due to the "combined effects of drought, wind erosion and low temperatures" and in some sections from heavy deposits of silt from dust storms.

In the Southwest, where dry and wet cycles have often followed each other in roughly set patterns, many old-timers are fearful that the dry years have yet to run their course.
